Re : Mark Harding and Tricia Mahoney

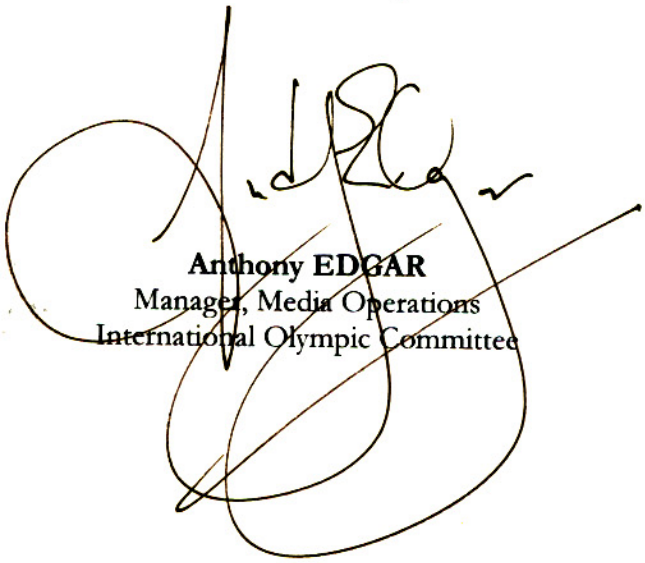

This is to confirm that Mark Harding and Tricia Mahoney, then with PCP, were entrusted with the contracts to design, typeset and manage all production of the Olympic Sport Programs and Olympic Daily for the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games.

The two projects were extraordinary due to their vision, quality and scale: the Olympic Sport Programs consisted of 29 magazines ranging in size from 52 to 86 pages (over 1,700 advertising free pages), while the Daily was the official results and start lists newspaper of each day of the Sydney Games. Both were produced under the most intense deadline pressures.

Mark and Tricia's professionalism and talent were exemplary. Their smooth systems enabled us to produce what is now considered 'best practice' and the standard for all future Olympic Games.
